Description

doctors tracer device

this tracer device was used by the doctor played by colin baker in the classic story mark of the rani it is used throughout the first episode, this is the working hero version that still lights up and makes a clicking noise when a battery is placed inside, doctors items are the rarest amongst all props and almost never come up for sale, this was originaly sold at the longleat 97 dr who auction and belonged to producer john nathan turner

i have been collecting dr who props for over 18 years and am well known in the collecting community, i will guarantee this item is 100% authentic for life, it can be seen on the well know RICHARD WHO collecting site in my private collection under (JAMIE FROM WALES)
